Jewish-I discovered my talent in music when i was still doing my Grade 4(10yearsOld). As a boy who grew up in a family with 2musicians, it influenced and motivated me to also try something in music. My interest in music pushed me to do music lessons when i was in Grade 4, where i ended up being the school's pianist in Grade 4, playing during school assembles. Seeing such progress my parents decided to make me venture more into music! Early Grade 5,i joined the school's marimba team, and was chosen to participate in the Bulawayo Marimba competitions which were held at the Bulawayo Amphi-Theatre, where we won and i got chosen to be part of the Bulawayo Marimba team. This pushed me more and more. I became a drummer at my church(Salvation army)when i was in grade 7. This is the journey of music, that pushed me to do what i do today. I grew up listening to the likes of R kelly and J cole a lot, this made me have the interest of trying out my vocals in the studio. My first time going into the studio was in 2015. I used to go there just to hang out and learn a few things about music, since it was at my friend's house. It so happened that one day when i went there, i found the producer playing Designers Panda instrumental, as he was planning on remixing it. I saw this as a chance to try and see what i was capable of doing, and so we decided not to write any lyrics, but Just get into the booth and freestyle on it. This was my first time recording, and the best part is that people loved it when they heard it, many producers and artists encouraged me to start recording more songs. And so because of this, my parents gave me the go ahead to record my very first song which was "Mashoko" in 2016
